5. [] A letter from a constituent was discussed with a Miss Fran Marcus, in the office of Senator Clifford P. Case (R., N.J.). The letter was totally incoherent and indicated a serious psychological malady. As far as could be determined, the constituent is an immigrant perhaps from Russia and is attempting to recover certain money kept in the Chase Manhattan Bank. Miss Marcus was advised that this Agency had no information concerning the constituent. She said that the letter had also been sent to the FBI and she would rely on them for any information.

6. [] A letter from a constituent was discussed with Mr. Vincent Griffith, in the office of Senator John V. Tunney (D., Calif.). The constituent referred to a previous letter that he had written to the Agency seeking employment and requested that Senator Tunney inquire as to why he had received no reply. Mr. Griffith was furnished a copy of the previous letter which clearly indicated that the constituent was seriously mentally ill, perhaps suffering from delusions of grandeur. In both letters, he noted his personal correspondence with world leaders and that due to his efforts, important meetings were arranged. I informed Mr. Griffith that the Agency, as a matter of policy, does not respond to letters of this type. A suggested reply to the constituent, however, was given to Mr. Griffith in which he could note that the Agency had been contacted but that no positions were available. Mr. Griffith understood the reasons for the Agency's policy and hoped that the suggested reply would satisfy the constituent.

7. [] In response to his call, met with Mr. Pat Holt, Senate Foreign Relations Committee staff, who reviewed with me his classified notes on conversations with members of the American Embassy during his visit in October to Haiti. Holt noted that his notes have not been published although they have been discussed with several members of the Committee. In brief, he was advised that no American military aid is being provided the Duvalier government. Holt gave me a copy of a Manchester Guardian article of 4 December by one Gregg Chamberlain that indicates military aid has been resumed and details the training and military supplies furnished the "Leopards" by the firm of Aerotrade of Miami, Florida. Holt asked for any comments we might have on the article and requested such information as can be made available concerning the firm Aerotrade and the marine veteran training officers. [] WH Division, has been advised.
